HERNIATED DISC TREATMENT WITH EXTENTRAC ELITE IS NOW AVAILABLE IN SANATORIA OF SOCHI, the city of the Olympic Games in Russia.

May 20th, 2011- Advanced Back Technologies, Inc., a manufacturing company located in Hauppauge, NY, is pleased to announce the installation of the FDA cleared spinal therapeutic device known as Extentrac Elite in the renowned Sanatoria of Sochi, Russia. Neurosurgeon, Dr. George Matkovsky, is now certified to utilize Extentrac's patented M3D technology for the provision of clinically effective customized treatment protocols for his patients suffering with pain and sciatica due to herniated disc, acute facet problems, and/or degenerative disc disease.

The Sanatorium Medical Center provides unique opportunities for their patients. Every year, tens of thousands of people come to spend their vacations and get expert help. Experienced medical specialists advise and treat on individual circumstances. Their choice of modern medical equipment allows for serious study and provision of qualitative and restorative treatment at the resort.

The city of Sochi has been selected to be the host of the Olympic Winter Games and Paralympic Winter Games in 2014. Sochi is known for its sport facilities and training centers. The city's warm climate was cited as one of the main incentives.

Initially created and developed by Dr. David F. Cuccia to relieve patients of chronic low back pain and degenerative disc disease, the Extentrac Elite is also an exceptional stretching apparatus utilized to increase flexibility, spinal mobilization, and improve posture for Athletes in training. The Extentrac Elite allows freedom and flexibility for the spine care specialist to customize patient care by targeting specific disc levels. The option to place patients in flexion, extension, lateral flexion, vertical gravitational, and antalgic positions, prior to or during the application of spinal disc decompression, results in optimal treatment efficiency.

Many athletes, including professional basketball, boxers, futbol, golfers, hockey players, and many more, have experienced fast, powerful, and effective results in clinics where doctors are advancing their treatment protocols with the use of Extentrac Elite.
